Television Media Shines at the Rocky Mountain Emmys Awards Ceremony

The Rocky Mountain Southwest Chapter of the National Academy of Television Arts & Sciences announced recipients of the 2019 Rocky Mountain Emmy Awards on Saturday, September 14th, at the Omni Montelucia Resort & Spa in Paradise Valley, Arizona.

The 42nd Annual Rocky Mountain Emmy Awards Red Carpet reception began at 5PM, followed by the Rocky Mountain Emmys award ceremony at 6PM with host Gary Valentine.

The festivities began earlier in the day with the Rocky Mountain Student Production Awards, featuring both high school and college student nominees. Those receiving awards represented 13 different schools across the region.

The SPAs preceded a VIP Reception with Gold & Silver Circle Society (Hall of Fame) members and Past Chapter Presidents, along with the current Board of Governors.

The Student Production Awards was broadcast live on Facebook. The Rocky Mountain Emmy Awards was broadcast live on our website, Facebook and YouTube, as well as on Amazon Fire TV, Apple TV & Roku. Video clips and professional photos are available of both events upon request.

“We are elated with the excellent work submitted for consideration for this year's Rocky Mountain Emmy Awards and Rocky Mountain Student Production Awards,” said Doug Mummert, President of the Rocky Mountain Southwest Chapter of NATAS. “We would like to congratulate all of our professional and student nominees and recipients. This was an amazing year. It shows the breadth of talent throughout the vast Rocky Mountain Southwest Chapter and region, as well as the professional and scholastic diversity of our entrants, members and students.”
